As well as providing a range of delicious plant-based meals, Mellors cares for the environment in many other ways. One way we try to reduce our impact on the world around us is by using as little packaging as possible. What little packaging we do use comes from already recycled materials and is fully compostable.

Your voice is important to us and we will be looking for School Food Ambassadors to help us monitor the offer and taste test new dishes. It's important for us that we get it right, so if you have what it takes to be a Mellors School Food Ambassador, let your catering team know.
